

APBEN 2021

Rethinking bioethics education after 2020

CALL FOR PAPERS

The Asia Pacific Bioethics Education Network

\(APBEN\) brings together educators and researchers working in ethics and professionalism education from across the Asia Pacific region to create connections, facilitate collaboration and share ideas and innovations.

The third APBEN conference will be held virtually and hosted by Deakin University, Australia from 27th-30th May, 2021. The online program will consist of scheduled live sessions as well as recorded presentations, posters and online interactions.

We welcome abstract submissions on any of the conference themes from educators and practitioners in medicine, nursing, optometry, physiotherapy, medical imaging, social work, paramedicine, and other health professions, as well as researchers.

Abstracts must be submitted in English via SurveyMonkey here:

<https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/APBEN2021>

before December 15, 2020.

Conference registration

Conference registration will open in December.

Conference themes:

1. Meeting needs for innovation: teaching ethics and professionalism in a physically distanced world.
2. Making space for all cultures, peoples and their knowledges in bioethics.
3. Building capacity of educators in bioethics and professionalism.
4. Role models and marking: teaching and assessing professionalism in clinical settings
5. Humanizing or hot air?: the role of humanities in ethics and professionalism education
6. Pandemic priorities: revising bioethics curricula in response to COVID-19
7. Other topics in bioethics and professionalism education

Follow @DeakinHealthEth and @AsiaBioethics for updates. Contact bioethics@deakin.edu.au to join our conference mailing list or if you have questions regarding abstract submission.

